NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

We've all heard the saying "If mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy!" As moms, we have a lot of influence over our kid's emotions, and attitudes. If we're having a bad day, they know. If we're mad about something, they get mad about it as well. Happiness Happens Day falls annually on August 8th. This year, make happiness happen in your house. Push aside the stress and worry as much as you can and spread a little joy in your family and friend's lives. (We have a list to get you started) Your positive vibes will go a long way in making your kids feel more confident as the world around them is out of their control.

If you have school aged kids, make sure you check out our Education and After School Directories- many of the businesses on these lists have modified their business offerings to accommodate kids during school hours and assist them with their learning. If you have that covered, but are looking for some extra-curricular options, you can find that in the After School Activities Directory. (Check out their Covid safety plans on their websites, or give them a quick call.)

Back to School is going to look different this year. We have a list of Back to Homeschool Tips and Traditions, and most of them will also apply to public school kids that are distance learning. We also have a list of quick brain breaks to keep your kids (and you) from throwing their laptops across the room!

As we know, this is going to be a challenging time for us as parents, and for our kids. Keeping a positive outlook and an attitude of making the best of a difficult situation will go a long way in easing the back to school transition. Wishing the best for everyone as we embark on the Fall of 2020.

BACK 2 Homeschool Tips & Traditions

By: Kerrie McLoughlin

Sure, homeschooling is a bit different from brick-and-mortar school, but some things are similar. Here are some things to consider when you are getting your child ready for a new school year at home:

1. Set a start date.

It's important for your entire family to know when school is starting. Vacations and events should be scheduled around the first day of homeschooling.

2. Go back-to-school shopping.

While some virtual schools will provide needed supplies, your kids will enjoy some new things to call their own. Let them choose something like a colorful fabric bin to keep all their homeschooling goodies and projects in, or a new set of markers or special notebook. If your budget allows, this is a great time to update their wardrobe with a new outfit or two.

3. Plan some freezer meals.

You'll want to focus on figuring out the routine and rhythm for your kids and for yourself. Having some freezer meals (or the pizza delivery place on speed dial) ready to go, will save your sanity and help you focus on the lessons each day during those first few weeks.

4. Plan some extracurricular, active and social activities.

Add in plenty of time to play and socialize during the school year by putting events in your planner or on your calendar so the kids can look forward to them. Plan some field trips with other families or groups so your kids can meet up with other homeschooled kids while you get some time to meet other homeschooling parents. (This might look different at the beginning of the school year, keeping social distancing in mind.)

5. Review the curriculum ahead of time.

Take some time to check out the curriculum so you are prepared to teach the first week of lessons. Fill in a lesson plan book for the first week to set your mind at ease.

6. Start the day right.

Prepare a special breakfast to get that brainpower going for the whole family.

7. Don't forget to take a first day photo.

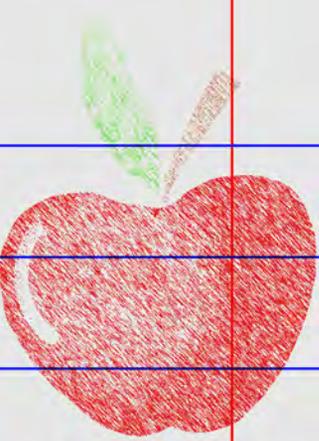

The photo of the first day of school is always one to treasure and look back on with fondness.

8. Celebrate the first day of school.

You might want to go a little bit light and ease into your first day of school, which is a wonderful benefit of homeschooling. After you're done for the day, consider going out for ice cream or heading to a park so you can all blow off some steam.

9. Finally, have your students keep a journal for the year.

This can be an inexpensive spiral-bound notebook or something fancy your kids create and decorate themselves, but the point is to try to jot something down daily throughout the school year. Even little ones can draw a picture of how they are feeling or of something they did that day.

8 QUICK BRAIN BREAKS!

Whether kids are doing school virtually, or just have a tough afternoon of homework, taking a quick break occasionally not only relieves stress, but will refocus the mind to complete tasks as needed. Here is a quick list of ideas for when they just can't stare at that screen any longer.

1 SHAKE SHAKE SHAKE

(For those of you over 40, I apologize for the ear worm!) Get up a dance! 5-10 minutes of dancing is a great way to release tension.

2 OM

Learn a few yoga poses and stress relief is at the tip of your fingertips...with your legs behind your head, of course!

3 JUST BREATHE (THERE'S AN APP FOR THAT!)

Teaching kids how to slow down and just take some deep breaths helps clear the mind. You can use an app to guide you, or just turn off all the noise, slow down, and breathe.

4 FEED THE BELLY

Being hungry can be very distracting. Taking a (healthy) snack break when the tummy starts to rumble will help refocus the brain on more important tasks.

5 JUMP

Just a few minutes of vigorous physical activity gets the blood pumping. Jumping jacks, jumping on the bed, or jumping on the trampoline will all do the trick. So, go ahead and jump! (there I go with the ear worms again!)

6 IMAGINATION STATION

Color, paint, sidewalk chalk- let the brain loose to create a masterpiece!

7 PLAY BALL

Shoot some hoops, play fetch with the dog, or grab a tennis ball for some Wall Ball. Again, the specific activity isn't as important as activity itself.

8 LISTEN UP

Music is a great stress reliever. Tune Alexa to your favorite station or genre, and sit back and relax. Singing along is even better!

This school year is going to be hard on everyone, kids and parents alike. By staying focused on what you can control and making the best of a not so great situation, your whole family will benefit. Join the kids for these mental breaks and feel the stress melt away.

Get Physical!

There are several activities you can do together, outside, while keeping a safe distance. Tennis, golf, walking/hiking, rollerblading or biking, fishing, etc... Get creative & get outside.

Movie Time!

Netflix will allow you to host a watch party with your Netflix subscribing friends where you can all watch the same movie & chat in real-time. This is only supported on Chrome web browsers.

Make it Fun!

FaceTime, Zoom, Facebook & Google all have ways to video chat with friends & add fun stickers & animations to your screen!

It's not just for little kids anymore! Host a virtual playdate- you can do crafts, games or even storytime. Older kids can plan their own activities.

Go Old School!

The CDC has stated that the chances of getting COVID from your mail are extremely low. You can make a "pen pal kit" with stationary, cool pens & stickers with a friend and start exchanging letters.

Become a Fairy!

Leave small gifts on the porches of families with kids, or your friends. These can include coloring books, crayons, sticker books, etc... Let your imagination run as wild as your budget will allow.
